

Common Assumptions (both true and false)

There is a God.
Gold is real money.
Those who work get paid.
The free market provides the best quality goods and services at the lowest price.
Capitalism in the cause of economic inequalities.
A goal of a nation is for all citizens to have equality of goods.
Man is basically good.
Government should take care of the poor.
Education is a right.
Health care is a right.
The Bible is true.
More jobs in a nation is always better.
Government is responsible to take care of national disasters.
Competition is good.
Employment is a win- win; the employer wins and so does the employee.
God is good.
Capital punishment for some crimes is necessary.
A pre-born person deserves to live.
All citizens should be equal before the law.
Legislators should be exempt from some laws.
Man is responsible for all of his actions.
After death, there is nothing; you just cease to exist.
We live only once on earth.
Beauty is only skin deep.
Governments should strive for full employments.
Compulsory education laws keep students in school.
Just as there is a minimum wage, there should be a maximum wage.
Seeing is believing.
Religion is about faith; science is about reason.