

Therefore, since we are receiving a kingdom which cannot be shaken, let us have grace, by which we may serve God acceptably with reverence and godly fear. Hebrews 12:28

When quarrels and factions are carried openly, it is a sign that the reverence of government is lost. The fear acceptable to God is a filial fear, a reverence full of awe of the divine nature, proceeding from a just esteem of His perfections, which produces in us an inclination to His service and an unwillingness to offend Him. Reverence is nearly equivalent to veneration, but expresses something less of the same emotion. It differs from awe, which is an emotion compounded of fear, dread or terror, with admiration of something great, but not necessarily implying love or affection. We feel reverence for a parent, and for an upright magistrate, but we stand in awe of a tyrant. This distinction may not always be observed.

2. An act of respect or obeisance; a bow or courtesy.

The courtiers bowed in reverence to Queen Elizabeth. See 2 Samuel 9:6.

re·vi·val, noun [French, “to live.”]

1. Restoration; to recover life, activity, vigor or strength.

After a long illness, the man of God experienced a revival of complete health.

2. Return, recall or recovery to life from death or apparent death; as the revival of a drowned person.

3. Return or recall to activity from a state of languor

(feebleness); as the revival of spirits.

And now for a little while grace has been shown from the LORD our God, to leave us a remnant to escape, and to give us a peg [a secure hold] in His holy place, that our God may enlighten our eyes and give us a measure of revival in our bondage. Ezra 9:8

4. Recall, return or recovery from a state of neglect, oblivion, obscurity or depression; as the revival of letters or learning.

5. Renewed and more active attention to religion; an awakening of men to their spiritual concerns.

When is revival needed? When carelessness and unconcern keep the people asleep. Billy Sunday rev·o·lu·tion, noun [from Latin verb, revolvere, “turn, roll back.”]

1. In physics, rotation; the circular motion of a body on its axis; a course or motion which brings every point of the surface or periphery of a body back to the place at which it began to move; as the revolution of a wheel; the diurnal revolution of the earth.

2. The motion of a body around any fixed point or center; as the annual revolution of the earth or other planet in its orbit around the center of the system.

revolution

3. Change alteration; radical change; as a revolution in thought, or the industrial revolution.

4. A fundamental change in political organization; an overthrow of the existing government and substitution of another, by the governed. There are great differences between the American and French revolutions.

The American Revolution against England resulted in the establishment of the United States of America, which has been the most free and just nation in the history of the world.

The man must be bad indeed who can look upon the events of the American Revolution without feeling the warmest gratitude towards the great Author of the Universe whose divine interposition was so frequently manifested in our behalf. George Washington. If you make peaceful revolution impossible, you make violent revolution inevitable. President John F. Kennedy rhet·o·ric, noun [Latin, rhetorice, “art of an orator”; from Greek verb, “to speak, to flow.” The primary sense is “to drive or send.”]

1. The art of speaking or writing with propriety, elegance and force. Cicero and Seneca were Roman orators well-versed in rhetoric.

2. One of the three ancient arts of discourse. Rhetoric has an important place in Christian classical education.

3. The power of persuasion or attraction; that which allures or charms. Rhetoric can refer to speech that sounds good but is insincere. The politician spoke well, but we felt that it was only rhetoric.

rich, adjective [Old English, “strong, powerful, great”; Old French, “wealthy, sumptuous.”]

1. Wealthy; opulent; possessing a large portion of land, goods or money, or a larger portion than is common to other men or to men of like rank. A farmer may be rich with property which would not make a nobleman rich. An annual income of 500 sterling pounds would make a rich vicar, but not a rich bishop. Men more willingly acknowledge others to be richer, than to be wiser than themselves.

Abram was very rich in livestock, in silver and in gold.

Genesis 13:2

2. Splendid; costly; valuable; precious; sumptuous; as a rich dress; a rich border; a rich silk; rich furniture; a rich present.

3. Abundant in materials; yielding great quantities of anything valuable; as a rich mine; rich ore.

4. Abounding in valuable ingredients or qualities; as a rich flavor; rich spices.

So we say, a rich description;

a discourse rich in ideas. The Holy Scriptures are rich with ways for a happy and blessed life.

5. Full of valuable achievements or works.

Each minute shall be rich in some great action. Nicholas Rowe

6. Fertile; fruitful; capable of producing large crops or quantities; as a rich soil; rich land; rich mold.

7. Abundant; large; as a rich crop.

8. Strong; vivid; perfect; as a rich color.

9. In Scripture, abounding; highly endowed with spiritual gifts; as rich in faith.

Listen, my beloved brethren: has God not chosen the poor of this world to be rich in faith and heirs of the kingdom which He promised to those who love Him? James 2:5

10. Placing confidence in outward prosperity.

Then Jesus said to His disciples, “Assuredly, I say to you that it is hard for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven. And again I say to you, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God.” Matthew 19:23-24

11. Self-righteous; abounding, in one’s own opinion, with spiritual graces.

Because you say, “I am rich, have become wealthy, and have need of nothing”—and do not know that you are wretched, miserable, poor, blind, and naked. Revelation 3:17

12. Rich in mercy, spoken of God, full of mercy, and ready to bestow good things on sinful men.

rich

But God, who is rich in mercy, because of His great love with which He loved us, even when we were dead in trespasses, made us alive together with Christ (by grace you have been saved). Ephesians 2:4-5

Or do you despise the riches of His goodness, forbearance, and longsuffering, not knowing that the goodness of God leads you to repentance? Romans 2:4

For there is no distinction between Jew and Greek, for the same Lord over all is rich to all who call upon Him. Romans 10:12

See Webster’s 1828 Dictionary for more definitions of Rich.

right, adjective [Latin, rectus, “to strain or stretch”; “straight.”]

1. Straight; not crooked.

2. Conformed to justice; upright.

It is right to obey the law.

And you shall do what is right and good in the sight of the LORD, that it may be well with you, and that you may go in and possess the good land of which the LORD swore to your fathers. Deuteronomy 6:18
